Dear Lucy,

Thank you for participating in the Women Presidents' Organization National Conference. I am extremely grateful for your willingness to extend yourself and appreciate your commitment to the WPO. The substance of your speech was very useful to the individual attendees and significant for the growth of their enterprises. You held the interest and attention of very demanding women who rarely sit through a meeting without planning their escape. You gave the members substantial information that they can begin to utilize today to strengthen both their professional and personal development.

As you know, the Women Presidents' Organization prides itself on empowering women presidents to achieve increased business and financial success and personal growth. Our National Conference helps us fulfill this mission. With support from leaders like yourself, we will continue to reach farther, together.

Again, thank you for your contribution and generosity of spirit.

Sincerely,

Marsha Firestone, Ph.D.
President
